

Part 1

What is Collage Success ? This is a question we all ponder at some point in our lifetime being that most would say “Getting a degree.”, “Being Valedictorian”, “Top of the 1% of the 1%”, or “Impossible task being achieved”. These are just of the many things that most would think is success but the way I see it might it’s own landscape.

From a Nietzschean view, being a successful college student should not be measured by the standards places upon us, but by the path we create for ourselves, the obstacles we overcome, and the person we become through the struggle. From here the definition that I see for Collage Success that I would place is that of a search of another Nietzschean concept be that of the Overman or the Übermensch. These being to grow past our current self to it’s next stage in growth be it beyond the Good or Evil of the many.

Being the grown of seeing things from a perspective where most don’t want to see with out a filter

Dwindling further into it my goals for the semester there simple being to see and understand the topics presented with the needed understanding and skepticism with some cynicism when need since there’s need for someone to be the “Court Jester” in the sense that we do need someone to “Make fun of the king with out getting removed”
